BIGAMIST AND MURDERER.

TOWANDA, Pa., Sept. 15. In 1864 L. U. Beach, a young doctor, married Frances Sweehysician of this county, against the wishes of son of a well-known and highly-respectable sitizen of the county. He had recently graduated, but a few years before had been considered insane, and had been under Dr. Sweeny's reatment. Some time after his marriage he w. About fifteen years ago trouble arose behim. He went to Hunterdon county and opened an office in Altoons. There he met a Miss Knott, and after a short time she married him. It is not known whether she ever knew that he was then a married man. The couple lived happily together.

On the 7th of April last Dr. Beach walked into the house of the young woman's brother. W. L. Knott, and coolly informed him that he had murdered his wife. The brother and others hurried to the Doctor's house. They found the dead body of the woman on the floor in the kitchen. The head was nearly severed from the body. There were deep cuts on the arms, and both hads were badly cut, as though the wounds had been received while she was strugging with her assassin. A small butcher sleaver and two sharp surgical instruments, all covered with blood, lay on the floor at the dead woman's elde. She had evidently lirst been attacked in bed, for her sleeping apartment was covered with blood, and showed signs of a desperate struggle. Bloody footprints led from her room to the room where her body was found.

Dr. Beach refused to assign any reason for committing the terrible crime. He was lodged in tail at Hollidaysburgh to await trial. A special court was convened last week for the irial. The plea of the defendant revealed a most remarkable mental condition in both his immediate tamily and other relatives. The prisoner's father testified that his father, sermiah Beach, was a lunatic. My older brother. Stephen, said the winess, was insanty. The remain Beach, was a lunatic up to 1860, when he improved so much in his mind that he pursued medical study. I noticed a recurrence of his malady in 1871 and in 1883."

Other relatives of the prisoner, among them his first wife, swore to their belief in his insanty. A long list of other witnesses testified that they had never noticed that he was other than of sound mind and perfect responsibility. The jury was out a short time only, and returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. This result was entirely unexpected to the prisoner. He turned deadly pale and almost consciousness. A motion was made for a new trial, which will be arg

NEWPORT, Sept. 15 .- In the first stage of the case of Fosdick against Fosdick, now be-Mrs. Jonnie P. Fosdick, daughter of Mr. Bain bridge S. Clark locitions for an absolute divorce from her husband, Charles B. Fosdick of Nev York, the plaintiff has received a severe check It was generally understood among Fosdick's friends that her application for divorce would ence was that an arrangement to that effec-be practically unopposed. In fact, the inference was that an arrangement to that effect had been entered into. It now seems that Mr. Foadick has determined to fight the case at overy stage, and some very sonsational particulars are promised.

In court to-day counsel for the defendant applied for a continuance. He said that crushly was the only allegation in the complaint, and he wanted them to understand that there had been a complete and clear condensation. He said that after the parties were married they visited Europe: that after the first of the acts complained of, which was in a public house, Mrs. Foadick left her husband, but afterward returned to him; that after the second act she left him magain, but once more returned; that finally, in February of last year, the parties had another quarrel, and them a deed of separation, drawn up under the laws of New York, was signed by both parties, Mr. Foadick at the same time giving the custody of the children to plaintiff, and agreeing to pay $2,500 a year for her and their maintenance. Hut, not satisfied with this," said the counsel. Mrs. Foadick almost immediately comes to Newyort for the nurpose of precuring a divorce, which she could not obtain under the laws of her own State, and besides this she holds the agreement over Mr. Foadick's head." These statements evidently made a deep impression upon the Court, and the continuance was at once granted. Mrs. Foadick and her friends are deeply chagrined over the result, and especially in view of the result, and especially in view of the MOTHER MANDELBAUM'S WISH. Frank's Record in Germany.

The counsel for Mrs. Frederika Mandelbaum, indicted for receiving stolen goods, moved yesterday, in the General Sessions, that Recorder Smyth appoint a commission to take evidence in Cologne, Gormany, as to the past life of Detective Gustave Frank, the chief wit-Mandelbaum's trial be postponed until the re-port of the commission is received. The lawport of the commission is received. The law-rer submitted his own affidavit, to the effect that he had learned that Frank was in busi-ness at Croch, near Cleves, Germany, in 1865, and became bankrupt. He was charged with forgery, and fied to this country. A proclama-tion calling for his arrest was issued. He the lawyer) cabe fire-ently to the Crown Presecutor at Cologne for information, and received a re-oly which, as translated by the lawyer's part-ler, was:

The present Presecuting Attorney acted against Gusave Frank stude the year 1867, without accomplishing mything. The present Directors of Police also made nquiries concerning Frank, which were fruitless. Assistant District Attorney Gove opposed the notion. He presented the affidavit of Detective Frank, denying all of the allegations against him. He was never in business at Jroch, and had never heard of such a place. An affidavit from Detective Pinkarton alleged that he had known Detective Pinkarton alleged that he had known Detective Frank for nineteen years, and know him to be a reliable man as to reputation and veracity. Frank has been in the employ of Pinkerton's detective agency for most of that time, and when he was not in this employ he Detective Pinkerton—knew where he was and what he was doing.

Interpreters Dollen and Alsing of the General Sessions made affidavit that the translation presented in court was incorrect, the roal translation being.

There are no documents to be found in the office of District Attorney of this city against Gustave Frank since the year 1807, also, at high ry at the Police Direction of this city about Frank was without result.

Ellis Morris sued the Gold and Stock Tele-traph Company to centrain the company from interfergraph Company to restrain the company from interfering with his use of an instrument hired by him from them. The company assert that kills, instead of using the instrument for stock brokerare purposes, keeps it in a room in Jersey City, and sends back the information turnished to New York for the use of other persons, for the purpose of facilitating gambling transactions in sucket shops. Mr. Morris denies these charges, Julies Yan Brunt, before whom a motion of desolves a positive any injunction was around, yes reason for granted the motion uses the ground that there are no longest eldence of a violation of the contract on the part of the plaintiff. Judge Van Brunt, however, directle that the plaintiff, Judge Van Brunt, however, directle that the injunction he not dissolved unless rent claimed to be due for the instrument be paid within five days.

Seiling Oleomargarine for Butter.

Edward Duffy, a grocer, of 212 Hudson ave-aus, Brooklyn, was before Justice Walsh vesterday, accused of violating the law against the sale of oleomarparine. This is the first arrest under the law, and was name through instructions from the State Dairy Com-made through instructions from the State Dairy Com-missioner, Josiah K. Brown. A pound of what was sold as butter was purchased from Duffy for 25 cents. The analysis showed that it contained: Water, 9.29 per cent; fat, 85,92 per cent t curd, 0.91 saits, 3.88. The fat rontained insoluble fatty acids, 95,36 per cent; soluble fatty acids, 0.86 per cent. There was hardly any genu-ine butter fat.

The Charity Commissioners of Kings county have been unable to decide on the respective claims of the two women, each of whom professes to be the wife of Robert Simpson, an inmate of the Flatbush Lunatic Asylum. Jane Simpson holds a certificate showing that also was married to Robert simpson in 1871, and Ellen Simpson in 1871, and Ellen Simpson in 1881. The Commissioners have applied to the courts for the application of a committee to take obsarse of Simpson and the special property. He was formerly a firemen on the bridge.

He Paid for All the Gas.

Edward McGuire, who occupied a part of the premises 1,242 Second avenue, for four years up to May last, thought his monthly gas bills were exorbitant. He

George H. Mills, the convioted wife murder-er, of Brooklyn, whose appeal for a new trial was denied last week by the General Term of the Supreme Court, was santeneed by Julier Moore vestering to be hanged on Frainty, Nov. 7. The case will be appealed.

PATAL LAMP EXPLOSION.

A Farmer's Child Bursed to Death, and his Wife Fatally Injured. ADDISON, N. Y., Sept 15 .- George W. Parsel, a farmer living in the town of Tuscarora, went away from home on Friday. Early on Saturday morning his wife was taken sick. Her 2-yearold daughter was sleeping with her. Her son, a young man, slept in an adjoining room. She arose from bed, and, lighting a lamp, started to go into another room to get some medicine. While on her way the lamp exploded in her hand. She was immediately enveloped in flames, which spread with the burning oil about the room. Her cries brought her son to her aid. He succeeded in smothering the flames on her person, and carried her out of the house. She was terribly burned. Placing her on the ground, the young man hurried back into the house to rescue his little stater, He could hear her shrieks, but the flames had cut off all means of getting to her. By the time neighbors were attracted to the spot the house was on fire from top to bottom, and the child was entirely consumed with the building. Mr. Parsel returned home just as the charred remains of his little girl were taken from the ruins. It is foared Mrs. Parsel's injuries will prove fatal. Her son is also terribly burned, and will be disfigured for life.
